Objective:

The objective of celebrating Matrubhasha Diwas (Mother Language Day) in a university may vary depending on the specific goals and context of the celebration. However, here's a general set of objectives for Matrubhasha Diwas in a university setting:

1. Promote Linguistic Diversity: Matrubhasha Diwas aims to celebrate and promote linguistic diversity by highlighting the importance of preserving and nurturing mother languages spoken by different communities.
2. Language Preservation: Encourage the preservation and revitalization of endangered or less commonly spoken languages, emphasizing their cultural and historical significance.
3. Raise Awareness: Raise awareness about the importance of mother languages and their role in shaping individuals' identity, culture, and heritage.
4. Promote the integration of mother languages into educational curricula to facilitate better learning outcomes and cognitive development, particularly for students whose mother tongue differs from the medium of instruction.

These objectives collectively contribute to the celebration of Matrubhasha Diwas and the broader goals of preserving linguistic diversity and cultural heritage within the university and beyond. The specific activities and initiatives undertaken to achieve these objectives may vary from one university to another, depending on their unique circumstances and priorities.
